SUBJECT:

DDCI Speaking Engagement, Boston Committee on Foreign Relations

The DDCI is speaking to the Boston Committee on Foreign Relations on Wednesday, 28 November, in Boston. We think that this is a worthwhile group to address, but we want to alert you to the fact that some of their members are foreign nationals. Secretary and Vice-Chairman Gary A. Spiess has told us that he can ask the foreign nationals not to attend the meeting, if you wish. In a recent conversation, he noted that the Israeli and Danish consuls in Boston belong to the group, as well as bankers who are resident aliens. Although he claims it would be awkward, Mr. Spiess is willing to ask these members to stay away. What is the DDCI's wish on this?

ILLEGIB

Dear Mr. McMahon:

The Officers of the Boston Committee on Foreign Relations, having heard of the interesting discussion you led for the Detroit Committee in April 1983, have asked me to extend to you their invitation to a dinner meeting some time during the coming academic year. The Committee can meet almost any weekday evening Tuesday through Thursday, and I have been asked initially to suggest November 27, 28 or 29. The choice of theme would be up to you, but Committee members would be interested in such subjects as the contribution of intelligence information to the making and carrying out of foreign policy, the effectiveness of Soviet intelligence activities, or intelligence as a factor in hindering terrorism.

The Boston Committee, like those affiliated with the Council in 37 other cities around the country, is made up of men and women who are leaders in business, the law, education, the media, etc. Meetings once or twice a month are held on a not-for-attribution basis and are purposely limited in attendance in order to facilitate a frank exchange of ideas. It is customary for a visitor to speak for about 20 minutes in order to establish a framework for the discussion to follow, and you could expect some stimulating questions. Among those who have spoken to Committees in the past are Messrs. Helms and Colby.

Boston Committee meetings customarily begin at 5:15 p.m. and end at 8:30 p.m.

If, as we very much hope, you are able to accept this invitation -- either for the dates proposed, or at a later date -- I would be pleased to ask the Committee Secretary to get in touch with you, or any designated person, about other details.

Sincerely,

Rolland Bushner
